His innovative educational system was put into practice in Norway and Sweden, and led to a significant amount of reform in the teaching methods at the theological seminaries of both countries. Ankerfelt is considered to be one of the first proponents of "the teacher-centred pedagogy". Biography Ludvig Ankerfelt was born in Ryum, Østfold on 26 February 1733. He was the son of Pastor Peter Ankerfelt (1699-1750) and his wife Helene Pedersen (1695-1769). His family was a part of a small, rural, Lutheran minority in Norway which opposed the predominance of a powerful Catholic Church in the rest of the country. Ankerfelt's father died when he was five years old. In 1752, he moved to Trondheim to study theology. He graduated from Trondheim Cathedral School in 1760. After ordination in 1761, he took a position as an assistant at the Kristiansund Cathedral School where he worked under the tutelage of the writer and educator Peder Erasmus Holmboe (1728-1806).
